GENERAL: Any subject is acceptable.

NATURE (Projected, 1/2/12)

Nature photography is restricted to the use of the photographic process to depict observations from all branches of natural history, except anthropology and archaeology, in such fashion that a well-informed person will be able to identify the subject material and to certify as to its honest presentation. The story telling value of a photograph must be weighed more than the pictorial quality. Human elements shall not be present, except on the rare occasion where those human elements enhance the nature story. The presence of scientific bands on wild animals is acceptable. Photographs of artificially produced hybrid plants or animals, mounted specimens, or obviously set arrangements, are ineligible, as is any form of manipulation that alters the truth of the photographic statement. Wildlife Definition - Wildlife is defined as one or more organisms living free and unrestrained in a natural or adopted habitat. Therefore, photographs of zoo or game farm animals are not eligible for entry in wildlife competitions. Editing Rules - No elements may be moved, cloned, added, deleted, rearranged, or combined. No manipulation or modification is permitted except resizing, cropping, selective lightening or darkening, and restoration of original color to the scene. No special effects filters can be applied. Any sharpening (and the division adds any other editing) must appear natural.

Still- Life (Projected, 1/16/12)

An arrangement of stationary elements, non-living, where subject, composition, arrangement, and illumination have been significantly determined and controlled by the maker.

PEOPLE/PORTRAIT: (Projected, 2/6/12)

Family photos, candid photos, formal/informal and environmental portraits. Any photograph of people, depicting the character of the subject.

PLANTS: (Prints, 2/20/12)

The Category includes any living member of the plant kingdom: wild or domestic.

CREATIVE. (Projected, 3/5/12)

Abstractions, patterns, and designs or a photograph that depicts subjects in a departure-from-realism through the use of various techniques, controls and processes.

PHOTO TIPS

Club Evaluations, Revisited

By John Davis

This is a good time to review some thoughts about evaluations (aka “critiques”) of prints and projected images.

Evaluations have a learning and educational purpose, to benefit the evaluator, the photographer, and all others present. There should be encouragement and feedback for the photographer, and an opportunity for the photographer to explain his/her purpose or intent.

Here are some brief ideas:

1. Identify and appreciate good, successful features in a positive, encouraging way;
2. Give ideas to improve an image without criticizing or finding fault. Be constructive;
3. Use an enthusiastic, friendly, tactful tone;
4. Be Brief.

Artistic evaluation is subjective. There are no absolutes. The evaluator’s conclusion is not as important as his/her reasoning.

Evaluations should look for and encourage, not stifle creativity and artistic expression.

When evaluating, see the whole image, and then examine the details, such as technique, composition and impact/interest.

Technique examples include focus, exposure, lighting, colors, computer editing, and cleanliness.

Composition centers on how visual elements are arranged to achieve a unified whole, to express the purpose of the image.

Impact and Interest are found by asking (for example) whether the image gets and keeps one's attention, evokes strong emotion, provokes one's imagination, has a "wow" factor, or draws the eye in and leads it through the image.

Try not to judge an image by how well it follows or breaks "rules. Using "rull" as authoritative can be a barrier to creativity. For example:

"The main subject should not be centered"

"The eyes must have catchlights"

"Always use an odd number of subjects"

"There must be a center of interest"

"Lines should go as we read, from left to right"

"Everything must be sharp" "The main subject should be on the right"

"You should always fill the frame"

Opinion without reasoning is not very useful:

"The composition leaves something to be desired"

"I really like this picture"

"This Works"

"The color is not quite right"

But evaluators can express reasoned opinions of their own or of others:

"Most people prefer...."

"It is generally accepted...."

"In my experience, I've found"

"I believe it is more pleasing to the eye"

And evaluators can use rhetorical questions like:

"Did you take a vertical of this?"

"Was it possible to move to the left to include the fence as a leading line

Avoid evaluator biases or preferences, likes and dislikes for a type or area of photography.

It is important for all present to feel that they can receive something of value during evaluations.
